Hahaha! I thought I didn't have a choice, linsi! So I was compelled to answer the five Qs. But it felt great to finally be put in the limelight.:lol:

Seriously, hope the number of featured member continues to grow. And I can't wait to see you in the roster, linsi. You should come out of your 'virtual shell' too!

The photo with the kids was taken during a gift giving activity I organized with friends two Christmases ago. Kayum saw the community when we went there for ocular inspection.:side: Unfortunately, he didn't make it to the giving day.:)

At last you give us an opportunity to know a little more on our most active member.

I am glad that Kayum is one of your friend. He is one of our members I appreciate the most his contribution. He has very good balanced appreciation.

What about our second shy girl member Linsi ?

Thanks for the compliments Mr. Jacques. ;) You're the man!

To Pokkha, it's about time you take your share of the spotlight and you know that. :P By the way, how's the community doing? I'm sorry I didn't make it to the giving day 'coz I had to fly back here in Australia. But you know my best wishes goes to all of them who were so accomodating when we went there.

Miss Linsi... the suspense is killing us. You should be the next featured member. Nuff said. ;)

Awww!!! This is so humbling! Thanks for believing in what I could deliver linsi. What I previously held was one of the most challenging tasks I've taken in my career life.

I never doubted that you can be one of our most treasured members here on AO. I actually thought that you could start a whole gang of active members here. But it seems the rest have probably changed priorities now.

No worries about it linsi. For sure, we're gonna grow to our dream number. Besides, it's always best to have quality members right?

Regarding the ocular, well, it's basically an inspection of the community that we're going to sponsor for a little kiddie Christmas party. I was very nice of Kayum to accompany me there to check the place. :)

Don't worry jacques

with the passing years all of us don't get older we get better!

And while this exchange has taken place, Linsi has passed Pokkha as the second most popular user on Asia Observer, according to the ranking on the members page.

The ranking shows the number of visits to a member's profile page.

So I guess you are really lining up to be one of our next featured members now, Linsi, despite being so shy? Or what do you think?

Yes Linsi B)

I told you, you have been trapped and you agreed :woohoo:

I keep my word for what you said to me :P , but you have to give to all of our members a little bit more of you. For instance what are you looking for in participating so much on A.O.

I like our mutual light flirting exchanges on A.O. You know, I never agreed to tchat, open a blog or this kind of thing, no use and time consuming for me. But I think you are a personality who deserve to be knownd, even with no picture.

Thrust me : give to all our members a small part of yourself and dremms.

but to overcome my shyness here..ok, (deep breath haha!)

It's good morning here in asia. good morning everyone.

hello john and jacques :) and to all.-
