

---

Job forum at Asia Observer?

Posted by Sandvand - 2007/10/01 10:56

---

In his presentation as featured member photo_journ has soe suggestions for new forums at Asia Observer.

READ OUR INTERVIEW WITH HIM HERE

Among other proposals is to establish a job forum at Asia Observer. What do you think about these ideas?

Here is what photo_journ says:

5. Why do you use Asia Observer?

It's a great aggregate site for keeping up with what's happening in Asia. The links to the news sources are convenient for jumping to countries of interest and seeing what are the issues of the day, while the forums are a useful source of information.

I feel the forums could be better used however. An employment forum might be useful, as to could be a forum where journalists in the region looking for help on articles they are preparing could post questions.

The forums could also serve as a useful source of information.

For example; how many people in the region access the Internet from home as opposed to an Internet cafe? A comparison of costs and charges for goods and services across the region, a more complete listing of each country's media and NGO's - and contact details, and perhaps a forum for journalists to gather and mingle more with residents of the region.

=====