
Mongolia

Posted by Paradoxan - 2008/03/21 22:04

One of the world's oldest countries.....Mongolia the central Asian Nation that once was the command center of all Euro
<http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mongolia>

Mongolia is a huge land lock nation between Russia in the north and China in the south. It is a central Asian nation that once rule an Empire that stretches from Asia to Europe to Middle East to South Asia. Never in human history a warlord named Genghis Khan the leader of Mongols had the military strategy that is so successful even today still uses his tactics. I am fascinated with the Mongols and their ultimate ruler/leader Genghis Khan. The very Great Wall of China is the evidence and proof of Chinese dynasties afraid from the nomad tribes and clans of northern neighbor Mongolia and her Mongols. The outer Mongolia was annex by China in 1691 and was given autonomy but the Mongols ousted the Chinese in 1911. Outer Mongolia remained a Chinese province but the Mongolian State accept Russian protection but unable to prevent the subsequent Chinese advance and in 1919 outer Mongolia once again fall to Chinese occupation. Finally in 1921 the Mongolians regain their territory from Chinese occupation after the combine forces of Soviet and Mongolian defeated the Chinese and declare Mongolian People's Republic in 1924. In 1989 the Soviets agree to withdraw their troops for protection from Chinese aggression led to Mongolia's multi party election in August 1990. A new Constitution was adopted declaring Mongolia as a Republic with Parliamentary Government in 1992. Now Mongolia is free from Chinese aggression but still part of Mongolia (inner Mongolia) is occupied by China.
http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Inner_Mongolia

=====

Re:Mongolia

Posted by Paradoxan - 2008/03/22 11:19

Mongol Empire.

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Mongol_Empire

In human history never in any time, there's a contagious land area as big as Mongol's Empire. Genghis Khan the leader of the Mongols is truly genius military strategist as well as global ruler. In fact it is he who invented the International trade notion that is well useful today and the world should thank his prowess of ingenuity and innovative, inventive tactics. My fascination with the Mongols and their "great leader" is timeless. Mongols does not have a large Army and yet they can conquer the largest joining land mass ever in human history from Pacific Ocean to Mediterranean/Black Sea, Caspian Sea to Indian Ocean totally swallowing entire China.

China is now using one of American strategies of globalizing. Money. Under the "watch" of US President George W. Bush Jan, 2001 - 2008 (almost 8 yrs) China becomes the next world's super power where else America is dwindling down and facing recession. This will be written in history. Leaders are very important in guiding their nations. The consequences of the ability, capability and genius personalities of leaders does reflects those relevant nations' status and situations. During their rule, the results show the level of those leaders' governance. Great leaders achieve great success. Time and again, in human's history we see the changing boundaries, changing maps, changing names, changing governments and so on. As one can see in the link that I provided, according to the calendar years, the map of Mongols changes. It depends on the leadership and how they conduct reflects and shows the achievements and failures.

In Tibetans massacre case, at least what the world can do if not intervene the rising super power China, is to boycott the Beijing Olympics. If the world does not do that or don't have the guts to do that..... the entire conscience of human rights agenda is meaningless and worthless.

In my opinion, the world needs a new world order. I don't know whether Presidential hopefuls namely, John McCain or Hillary Clinton or Barack Obama can do that when one of them becomes the next President of USA. Saying things is easy but proving in deeds and conduct is difficult. Either of these excellent choice of Presidential hopefuls' ability, capability and personality to achieve success which America, Americans and the world badly, truly need is yet to be seen in reality.

Genghis Khan had shown to the world his genius in combining his once divided many tribes or warlords into one single force as "Mongols" crushing all opponents and adversaries and proclaim VICTORY!

My "timeless" admiration to his genius and prowess, the Mongols' leader Genghis Khan.

=====