
Something New

Posted by linsi - 2008/02/27 20:53

<http://mip.typepad.com/photos/uncategorized/2007/08/10/new.gif>

It's been quite awhile when new lay-out designs were discussed in AO, and am so glad to see it happen- this is exactly the way other sites catch the catch...:laugh:

The homepage comes alive with the new format of having to see the substance of AO in an instant-now it's not like reading a book, it is watching digital imageries.

gone are the days when one has to cick and browse tool bars for something interesting seeking holistic views, now all readers can watch and see AO in full colorful animated slideshow- which is the trend of the young generations seeking for something vibrant with digital softwares.

Congratulations to the admin office and most of all to the efficient and skilled web designers-- kudos!

=====

Re:Something New

Posted by Sandvand - 2008/02/27 21:43

Thank you so much for your kind words, Linsi! I am glad to hear you liked it.

What do other users think?

JohnB)

=====

Re:Something New

Posted by Miramar - 2008/04/16 00:43

I think it is fabulous! AO is getting better as time moves on to appealing artistic/articulated attraction.

=====

Re:Something New

Posted by linsi - 2008/05/04 04:27

we need something new- on a regular basis! B)

fresh ideas, fresh disussions, diversified perceptons and angles
in news making and exchanges-

something different and interesting which is related to everyday life and uniquely asian-

where are the asian writers?

B)

Re:Something New

Posted by linsi - 2008/05/04 06:26

maybe, AO can try something new with the way news articles are posted, one which would encourage more participation from more registered posters, so that variable ideas are available in the board and not the same people like me are seen almost everyday :S

the more thoughts are posted the wide variety of horizons are learned.

Re:Something New

Posted by linsi - 2008/05/05 22:05

nice to see that different handles are seen posting in our "LATEST FORUM POSTS" area B) in the likes of:

callingcardpartner
zynn yaw
thunderbolts
Polaris
also Miramar

at least fresh ideas and diversified topics come in

i encourage all to post in- the board is wide
let us know your thoughts

thanks
linsi

B)

variable ideas necessary
in the board and not the same people like me are seen almost everyday B)
