

---

How to keep track of interesting discussions

Posted by Sandvand - 2007/06/03 17:32

---

Are you particularly interested in a few of the discussions going on at Asia Observer? Here are two techniques to make it easier to track specific threads in the forums:

1. Add to favorites. You find this tab when you are inside a particular thread. Select it and the next time you are in that forum the posting/thread will be marked by a yellow star. NB: You need to be logged in to see the star.

2. Subscribe. By selecting this you will get an automatic mail from Asia Observer each time there is a new reply to this thread. You unsubscribe by using the same tab.

Good luck!

JohnB)

=====

Re:How to keep track of interesting discussions

Posted by linsi - 2007/06/03 17:46

---

nice john

then i shall do it.
thanks :)

=====

Re:How to keep track of interesting discussions

Posted by linsi - 2008/05/04 06:31

---

hi john

maybe AO can put emphasis on "features" during weekends something which is lighter from the hard arena of politics and chaos, something were people can unwind a bit which is related somehow to interesting things happening in asia..

B)

=====