
Polyandry in Tibet

Posted by linsi - 2008/07/01 17:32

Read about Polyandry In Tibet

This strong bond between brothers is what allows such a polyandrous relationship to prevail.

From a woman's point of view, there is a strong sense of security when there are at least two husbands providing for her and the children .

In either case, polyandry seems to create a sturdy sense of family unity.

This is very important in order for the family to maintain its socioeconomic status and keep land holdings undivided.

http://www.associatedcontent.com/article/166352/polyandry_the_rarest_form_of_marriage.html?cat=41:dry:

=====