
Most popular users

Some may find it silly, other may think it is interesting or intriguing. In any case: On the members page we have now added a dynamic listing of the 10 most popular members of Asia Observer.

How it is measured? The listing is based on the number of visits to each member's profile page.

Do you want to be on the list? There are basically two things you need to do to attract other members to your profile page:

1. Make your profile page interesting. Most importantly: Upload a profile picture. But also adding information about yourself and connecting with other members will make your profile page more attractive.
2. Participate very actively on the site. Share articles on the front page and post in the different forums. When people read your postings they get curious and click on your username to learn more.

You find the members page here.

Wow, I didn't expect I'd land on the 2nd spot! Haha. :cheer:

It's fun to imagine that we'll have a longer list of popular members soon. We're getting there, John! B)

I think the explanation is very simple: You are one of the top posters in our forums. And when you post often, other users will be curious about you and click on your username to learn more.

Thank you so much for your active participation, truthseeker!
